

The Arizona Corporation Commission will consider several factors before approving a Certificate of Environmental Compatibility. These factors, used by TEP to analyze potential line routes, include:

Wildlife and plant life

Scenic areas, historic sites and archaeological sites and structures

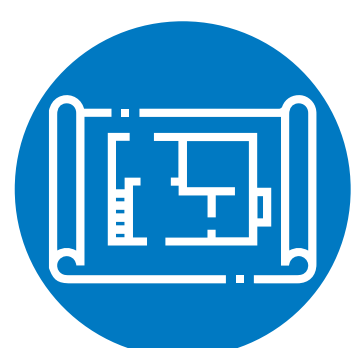

Environment

Noise emission levels and interference with communication signals

Potential public recreational uses

Existing development plans

Engineering feasibility and challenges

Project costs and potential impacts on customer rates

Public input